

Australia is a country and continent in the south-western Pacific Ocean. It is the world's smallest continent and sixth largest country by total area.